APPEAL IS REFUSED

[Republican A. P. Leased Wire]
SHAWNEE CITY, N. M., May 3.—Judge Nebbett in district court here today refused to grant an appeal to the state supreme court in the case of Lucius C. Hightower and Pedro Monter, sentenced to be hanged next Friday on a charge of murder.

"LUMBER"

I just bought 100,000 feet of Arizona pine lumber from a small mill. There will be all grades and sizes of it. The first car is in now. Can furnish you rough or surfaced in all grades. I bought it right and will sell it right. The 2x3 and 2x4 in this stock will be good strong dependable material. 1-7-8x3-4 and 1-7-8x2-3-4 saw sized and SIS if you like.

There will be 20,000 feet of 1x4 to 1x12 at $20.00 and $25.00 a thousand and 5,000 feet of cull lumber at $15.00 a thousand.

While this 100,000 feet lasts you will be able to buy Arizona lumber almost as cheap as you could a year ago when everything was at the lowest.

Come and see the stock as it arrives. We can handle two cars a week if you will buy it. I know it is a busy time of year to try to sell much lumber, but as the big mill don't furnish little dealers I have to buy when I can get the stock, and will make the price right if you will buy this lot of material now.

AJO GOAL OF PHOENICIANS ON BIG EXCURSION TODAY

Hundred and Fifty Sign Up for Tour, More Expected This Morning; Special Train to Convey Tourists to Cornelia

Between 150 and 175 Phoenixians will board a special train at 7 o'clock this morning for the first excursion ever run to Cornelia, Arizona, where the new mining district of Ajo has been opened up.

An excursion to Ajo is the result of a long series of events, beginning with the sending by the Rotary Club of three auto-loads of emissaries to the new mining camp just winter. The excursion has awaited the opening of the new railroad from Gila Bend to Ajo—42 miles of it.

At the last moment the committee got hold of a plane, which will be loaded into the baggage car, so any impromptu close harmony, barber shop, college campus quartet that chance to be along may loosen up and make melody on the road.

The schedule is printed this time, so those who go long may check themselves up and find out where they are at. Also, so they as stay-at-home may glance at the paper and see instantly where their loved ones are at any given hour.

An Joyful Outing.

tion against the censors on the ground that the board acted under Ordinance 50, which was repealed. Later, Ordinance 29 was drafted and a new order, worded the same as that issued Monday, was made and served on the management. This necessitated further proceedings on the part of Mr. Bullard.

While the Griffith masterpiece is subject to the criticism of the censors, the famous moving picture producer and director is passing his judgment upon censorship. Mr. Griffith has just completed a booklet, entitled "The Rise and Fall of Free Speech in America," which is a protest against the censorship of motion pictures.

Much of the little book consists of epigrams and cartoons, while there is a notable signed essay by Mr. Griffith on film censorship. Here are some of the epigrams:

"Ours is a government of free speech and a free press."
"Suppression of motion pictures implies suppression of the press."
"Under censorship one man can dictate the thought of millions."
"The contrast of vice and virtue is essential in drama."
"The moving picture, like most new things, is under suspicion."

"In the future, history will speak through the mouthpiece of moving pictures."
"Muzzle the movies and defeat the educational purpose of this graphic art."
"Censorship infers lack of public intelligence."

Deputy Sheriff Murphy Picks Up Suspect Who is Wanted for Auto Theft in California.

An automobile in the road and a man a short distance away asleep on some hay were enough to arouse the suspicions of Deputy Sheriff J. T. Murphy, who chanced to be passing. "What is that machine doing in the road?" he inquired.

"It's broken," was the reply.

"Well, I'll drive you back to town and we'll get it fixed," said the deputy.

The man proffered his own car, however, when he saw there was no use in trying to evade the officer. On the two-mile ride back to town he told Murphy that he had been hired at Yuma to take three men to Globe and had been paid $20. He said he did not stop in Globe but hurried on to Phoenix. The wily officer questioned the man, who gave his name as Edward Dickson, about Roosevelt and Fish Creek Hill, which were "parts unknown" to Dickson.

The car, a Dodge, bore a California license. The sheriff's office wired the coast and a reply from Orange county requested that Dickson be held. He agreed to waive extradition papers and the officers from the coast will arrive tomorrow to take him in charge.

WHERE LIES HUGHES' STRENGTH

The strength that Hughes still has is based on three elements. First, the persons who do not quite believe in preparedness or a strong international policy to the extent that Roosevelt advocates, but still are anxious to defeat Wilson. To those persons Hughes is an acceptable candidate. Second, the implacable ones among the stand-patters who cannot forgive Roosevelt, either for his radicalism in past years or for his splitting the party in 1912. Their position may be state due "something, even defeat, rather than Roosevelt."

Third, a smaller group among the stand-patters who admit that Roosevelt is more closely identified with the issues which are going to be discussed in the campaign, but think that Hughes can get more votes. This belief of theirs is based on the assumption that the political enemies whom Roosevelt has made in the past and those Republicans whom he has alienated will continue to be against him the coming summer.

The one great handicap to the Hughes candidacy, of course, is his inability to make his views on the issue known without leaving the supreme court—and the unwillingness to leave the court in order to give expression to whatever views he has about preparedness and a stronger foreign policy.
